Thanks to my assertive (ER nurse/future NP) wife, they gave me Vicodin for up to five days, but I went off it last night. I'm only taking Ibuprofen – not even sure if I need that too. Also, I'm off eating pancakes! I can already tell the pain I had before the surgery is completely gone and the pain from the surgery is not a big deal – except for minor swelling and stiffness for the next 48 hours. Basically the pain before the surgery was much worse than the pain now.

So, I telecommuting not under the influence. I will be working on leads on Upper Animas for access and corporate nexus issues previously discussed with Richard as well as anything else that comes up on other sites.

Call me if you need help. I will also be checking my voice mail on Friday and Monday and can do record checks.
